

Turn complex documents into smart, interactive tools.

Since 1997 sole practitioners, national law firms, and corporations have entrusted their hyperlinked research and briefing projects to the National Data Support team when they need to access, navigate, and review large volumes of paper and electronic documents — and when they need to clearly and persuasively present their findings to a court, board of directors, or other decision makers. We're the hyperlinking specialists.

Our services span a wide range of document management needs and research parameters. Whatever the nature of your project, you'll work at peak efficiency with an interactive solution from National Data Support.

Support for Law Firms and Courts

Hyperlinked Pre-Trial, Post-Trial, and Appellate Filings

Because the hyperlinked format offers faster access and quicker data retrieval than the traditional paper model, an increasing number of courts and law firms throughout the country are asking for review materials on CD-ROM.

NDS has developed an efficient and organized structure for our hyperlinked briefs and trial review tools that insures easy navigation. In addition to hyperlinked citations within the briefs, documents can be accessed directly via hyperlinked indices and tables of content. Our hyperlinked briefs and trial review tools are amazingly easy-to-use.

Support for Law Firms

NDS supports law firms by making the review process far more efficient and the presentation of their case clearer and more compelling. Our hyperlinked briefs and trial review tools help them overcome the problems inherent in an unwieldy record or complex issues. All citations within briefs are hyperlinked to the targeted location, and scanned exhibits, audio, video, photos, and complex graphics are carefully presented on-screen for an effective presentation. Attorneys can feel confident their arguments and key exhibits aren't lost in a mountain of paper. And the CD becomes an invaluable tool at future briefing stages, for oral argument preparation, or for further litigation.

Support for Courts

NDS supports courts by offering a cost effective way to provide faster disposition of cases. National Data Support's hyperlinked briefs provide instant access to all cited documents and legal authorities, allowing a more thorough review and major time savings. The convenient format enables judges and staff to work on the same case simultaneously, without having to reproduce the entire record.

What law firms and courts can expect from an NDS product

- Exact replicas of all submitted briefs on CD-ROM or DVD
- Searchable text with hyperlinks to all citations within and between documents
- Sortable, hyperlinked indices and tables of content for easy access and review
- Hyperlinked reporter's transcript, organized by witness and examiner
- Audio and video clips that open at the targeted location and close on cue
- Tools to enhance research and brief or decision writing
- Portability, so the briefs can be reviewed on a PC anywhere
- A highly secure process that assures strict confidentiality
- Technologies and procedures that maintain content integrity
- An easy-to-use format that requires no specialized software, hardware, or training

Interactive Trial Review Tools:

NDS takes the entire trial record, including decision, and creates an organized, fully hyperlinked tool for the appellate practitioner.

Interactive, Hyperlinked Briefs:

NDS works with one or both parties to create a hyperlinked version of all included briefs for pre-trial, post-trial, and appellate filings.

Interactive, Corporate Documents:

NDS takes corporate hard-copy and electronic documents and creates a hyperlinked, cross-referenced e-project for presentation, internal review, and collaboration.

Support for Corporate Clients and Government Agencies

Hyperlinked e-Projects

When businesses need to access, navigate, and review large volumes of paper and electronic documents, National Data Support has the solution. Whether the documents are made up of regulatory filings, reports and impact statements, patent applications, M&A documents, or detailed reference manuals, NDS can turn hard copy and electronic data into interactive tools that put an end to the paper shuffle and let you get back to business.

The National Data Support team has been producing reliable hyperlinked legal documents for law firms and courts throughout the United States, practically inventing the hyperlinked legal brief category. Over the years, we've developed a process that allows us to customize our services and products to suit any of your filing requirements, document management needs, and research/analysis parameters. Our hyperlinked products allow you to quickly retrieve and review associated data of any kind with ease, improving analysis, collaboration, and communication.

What your team can expect from an NDS e-Project

- Exact replicas of all submitted material on CD-ROM or DVD
- Searchable text with hyperlinks to all citations within and between documents
- Sortable, hyperlinked indices and tables of content for easy access and review
- Audio and video clips that open at the targeted location and close on cue
- Tools to enhance research, writing, and collaboration
- Portability, so key personnel have data when and where they need it
- A highly secure process that assures strict confidentiality
- Technologies and procedures that maintain content integrity
- An easy-to-use format that requires no specialized software, hardware, or training

Building a hyperlinked legal or corporate document

Working with NDS to build your hyperlinked project is simple and efficient. We provide you with a secure, reliable, web-based environment in which to submit your electronic material. Every submission, revision, and notification is tracked through our proprietary development engine, assuring you and your clients of document integrity and security. Hard-copy material can be sent via your carrier of choice.

NDS begins preparing your data the moment it arrives, building a framework upon which your entire project is based. Because our automated processes allow us to "build as we go," editing and revising your documents is never a problem. Adding data, even from multiple sources, is simple at every step of the process. Your NDS project manager is assigned to manage your document from beginning to end.

Why choose National Data Support?

NDS is more than a technology company. We provide clients the support and tools they need to create winning briefs and achieve their research and collaboration goals. Over the years we've developed processes and software that allow for broader and deeper linking, maintain content integrity, assure fast turn-around, and give you and your clients the most value for your dollar.

At National Data Support quality is guaranteed. Our aim is always to exceed your expectations. We deliver an exceptional work product that is on time, on budget — and to your specifications.

Some of the nation's largest law firms and corporations have trusted National Data Support to handle their most important matters. Please visit us at www.nationaldatasupport.com and view our online client list.